

How much can BuildingReports save you – and how fast?

With BuildingReports' advanced inspection tools, you can dramatically reduce the time to create and improve the accuracy of your inspection reports. Please provide a few pieces of information about your current inspection business to calculate the BuildingReports return on investment.

Time to Savings*

Based on the data you provided, here is the estimated time it will take for BuildingReports to pay for itself.

Your 4 technicians currently produce 10 inspection reports per week at a cost of $174.72 per report, which adds up to $1,680 per week.

You currently produce 42 reports per month at a cost of $7,280, or 500 reports per year, at total cost to Arketi test of $87,360.

To start using BuildingReports, your estimated upfront cost would be $3,924.

This means your total initial investment would be recouped within 1 months ($$3,924 \div $7,280$).

Based on the figures you provided, if you started using BuildingReports today, your initial costs would be recouped by May 2017.

Annual Savings*

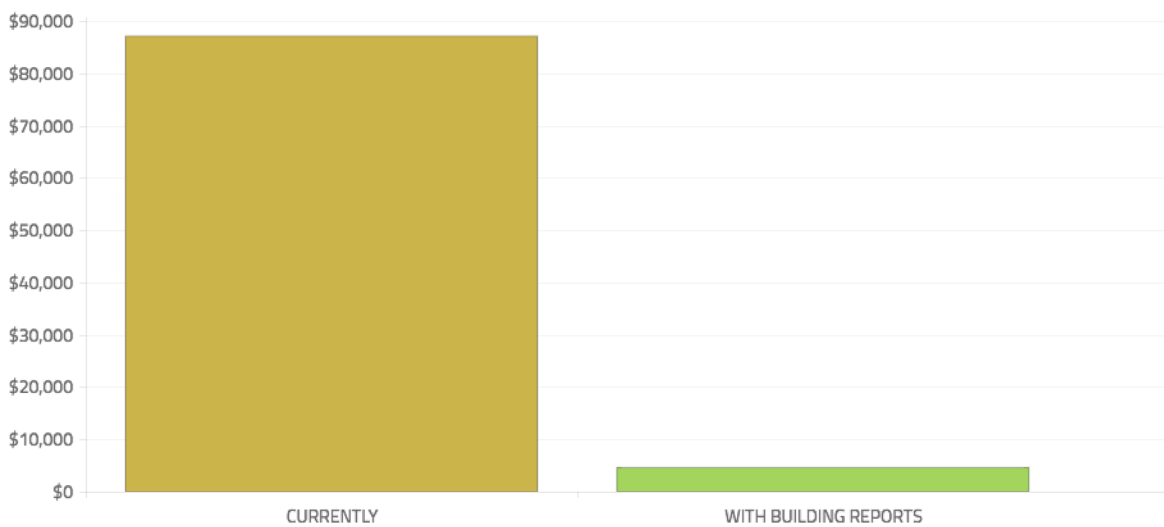

Based on your inspection volume, here's how much you can expect to save annually with BuildingReports.

Your 4 technicians currently complete 500 inspections annually. At an industry average of 57 devices per inspection, that's 28,500 devices inspected per year.

With BuildingReports, your estimated costs would be approximately $404 per month, or $4,845 annually. (Packages are available that may reduce this cost further.)

As your current costs are $87,360 per year, switching to BuildingReports could save you $82,515 a year – every year.

Arketi test's annual costs for 4 technicians performing a total 500 inspections per year.
